

JMID BUILDS WITH HABITAT FOR HUMANITY

In May the JMID crew donned our work clothes and lent a hand at Habitat for Humanity's new Dockside location on Henderson Creek. Dockside is Habitat Collier's first townhome style development, and it features Key West inspired architecture. We all enjoyed working to help complete this beautiful community knowing that hard-working local families will soon call it home. We caulked and painted baseboards, back decks, and parking signage and had fun with each other and made new friends along the way. The Dockside Community is located on Henderson Creek adjacent to Rookery Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve and will have 44 townhomes. We were all very impressed with the efforts of Habitat Collier!
