

JINX MCDONALD INTERIOR DESIGNS

AFTER

BEFORE

President and Interior Designer Minka McDonald and Design Associate Lucy Warren of Jinx McDonald Interior Designs create the perfect space for a bachelor in a Turnbury of Willoughby Acres remodel. ■

Courtesy of Jinx McDonald Interior Designs | jinxmcdonald.com
"After" Photography by Amber Fredericksen

Kitchen: The custom white nickel gap hood ties in with the nickel gap ceiling treatment and focal wall in the living room. White floating shelves create easy access to daily drinkware and dinnerware while showing off the gorgeous blue tile herringbone backsplash.

Living Room: The living room was enlarged and defined by a white painted box beam and nickel gap ceiling treatment. A focal wall was created with white base cabinets and taupe floating shelves flanking a central section clad in white nickel gap where the television is mounted. The living room is a handsome and comfortable space where the owner can dine at the custom sofa console without worrying about dirtying his new sofas. The cozy leather recliners are perfect for watching sporting events and movies.

As Featured in Home & Design

As Featured in Home & Design

JINX MCDONALD INTERIOR DESIGNS

Master Bedroom: This room was dressed up with white nickel gap on the ceiling and a sliding glass barn door to the master bathroom. The handsome bed adds an organic feel to the fresh new space.

Master Bathroom: The crisp and fresh master bathroom has white nickel gap on the vanity wall and tray ceiling. Custom white cabinets sit atop white and gray hexagon floor tiles that run into the shower where they meet gray wall tiles and a clear, frameless glass enclosure. The vanity's countertop is made of Ocean Jasper Silestone, which accents the crisp white custom cabinetry.

